Red Deer vs. Caledonians

The Calgary Caledonians, champions of Canada, visited Red Deer on Labor Day, 5th inst., and played Red Deer United in the semi-final for the Bennet Shield, and defeated the locals by the score of four to nil. Although scoring four goals, the champions must be considered a bit lucky, as two of them were directly due to mis-kicks on the part of Red Deer's backs, while another was scored from a penalty kick. Davis saved the penalty alright, but in his anxiety to get rid of the ball, he threw it over his shoulder, striking the post and rebounding into the net, much to his evident disgust. The occasion seemed too big for not a few of the Red Deer team, albeit they gave a bright display in the first half, the visitors not scoring for twenty minutes, and came pretty near scoring on one or two occasions, J. Hutton missing a dead cert. The "Callies" displayed splendid combination, which was sadly lacking on the part of the home team. Their backs had an easy time, due to the splendid half-backs in front of them, each of whom showed a thorough knowledge of the game. Amongst the forwards the brothers Williams and Thomson took the eye most with effective play. For the home team Davis was in no way to blame for any of the goals scored against him, and at all times he showed himself to be a capable custodian. Oliver was the best of the backs, Scott easily the best half-back, while A. Hutton was the only forward worthy of note.

Teams: "Callies"—W. Strang, Grindlay and Deacon, J. Johnston, A. Strang and Braidwood, McKinney, Barnes, L. Williams, Thomson and J. Williams. Red Deer—Davis, Oliver and McCrorie, Scott, Krause and Field, Castle, Brydie, J. Hutton, A. Hutton and Gee.

Referee—J. Dalgetty.

Contractor Was Killed at Alix.

Alix, Sept. 1. — Contractor Murray who is engaged in railway work on the Grand Trunk, was killed by one of his employees last night. The murderer, whose name is unknown, left for the south immediately, and is now being pursued by five policemen.

The dead man was a member of the firm of Holmes, Sharkey and Murray who had a ten-mile subcontract under George Webster. The man who did the killing had been discharged, or was quitting, and wanted his money at once, but the contractor said he would give him a check, as he did not have the money. Afterward they met; the laborer was accompanied by some companions, and Murray was attacked and, it is stated, hit over the head with a bottle. This occurred about 16.30 the afternoon. The injuries inflicted were so serious that Mr. Murray died shortly before midnight. Mr. Murray came up here from the east, and was about 50 years old.

Alix, Sept. 1. — Woods, the man who killed Contractor Murray, had not been captured up to this evening.

After an exciting chase, murderer Woods and his companions were captured Thursday afternoon last, fifteen miles south of the Red Deer river.

They had a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace G. H. Darlow, adjourned to Monday, after the inquest. Woods and his companions were taken to Stettler by Detective Sergt. Tucker and Constable Thorne, to be held until Monday.

Woods is charged with murder and the others with vagrancy. When told last night Murray was dead, Woods remarked: "The hell he is," and continued smoking a cigarette. He laughed and joked at breakfast this morning. He does not seem to realize the seriousness of his position. He is 22 years of age and a hard looking character.

Boy Found Dead.

A young man working for M. McDonald, west of Penhold, was found dead yesterday from a gun shot wound. He went out Monday and did not return. He had no gun with him when found. It is thought he may have shot himself accidentally and tried to reach home but dropped on the way. The police were notified and are investigating. The gun has not so far been found.

NEW BANK BUILDING.

Commerce to Erect $30,000 Block At Once.

Plans and specifications were received a few days ago by W. L. Gibson, manager of the Red Deer branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, for a splendid new $30,000 block to be erected on Ross avenue on the Bank's property at present occupied by Jno. McMillan as a jewelry store and the lot west. The building will be fifty feet front, about forty feet high, 39. feet deep on the west side covering the vault, and 30 feet deep on the east side. It will be of solid brick, with pressed brick front. There will be four stone pillars facing the street giving the building a strikingly handsome appearance in Grecian architecture. There will be a basement under the whole block, which will be heated with steam. The first floor will be devoted to Bank purposes and will be fitted up with all modern improvements. The upper flat will consist of six bedrooms, large sitting room with fireplace, bathroom and other conveniences, for the accommodation of the staff.

W. H. Causton, building superintendent, will probably be in town to-day to make arrangements for starting the work on the building.

We understand all work will be done by local contractors where possible.

The structure when completed will be the finest bank building between Calgary and Edmonton.

BARNES' BIG CIRCUS

Marvellous Show of Trained Animals.

The Barnes' famous three-ring circus of trained animals showed in Red Deer on Monday last, and, although the day was cold and damp, both performances were well attended.

To begin with, a big show of this kind is usually attended by some show of roughness and disorder, but never have we met a more courteous, orderly and clean show than the Barnes' aggregation put up on Monday.

Millie Barnes, the leading lady trainer, entered the caged arena with an African lion and made it do sundry tricks, roll over, climb bars, and finally ride a horse around the ring, accompanied by three other horses having animals their on backs, one a bear, another a dog, and the fourth a monkey. Imagine a horse trained to give its most deadly enemy, the lion, a ride on its back. Millie Barnes took the cake.

Martha Florine, the small but fearless trainer of a number of Persian leopards and panthers, handled her charges remarkably well and brought forth rounds of applause. It is alright for a man to tackle lions and ferocious wild animals, but when a nervy woman does it she is entitled to the applause she receives.

Edwin Kelly, the lion trainer, showed complete control over a number of African lions and Bengal tigers, putting his head in the mouth of one of the lions.

The performing seals or sea lions, under the charge of Capt. Stonewall, were most astonishing. They danced, blew horns and mouth organs, and even played ball, one balancing the ball on its nose, throwing it up, and catching it again.

To specify all would take too much space, but the elephants stood on their heads, washed clothes, and threw the old woman in the wash tub; Marrow's well trained band of performing dogs did wonderful stunts; the clowns were amusing; the camels, zebras, pumas, and a hundred and one other animals greatly admired, and altogether never has there visited the West such a group of animals, trained or untrained; and when one stops to think that almost every animal has been carefully educated to do some clever performance, the wonder grows. We forgot to mention the performing bears. One ring was devoted to Canadian bears and the caged arena to Russian bears. They drank out of bottles, danced, wrestled with the trainer, and performed many tricks. Altogether, the entire show was an eye-opener and an education, showing the average layman what can be done in the way of training wild beasts, and especially seals, to act with almost human intelligence.

Change of Business.

C. E. Hall, the well known dry goods merchant, has sold his business to H. L. Gaetz, Mr. Gaetz having disposed of his interests in the firm of Gaetz & Gaetz to T. A. Gaetz. We regret Mr. Hall's withdrawal from active mercantile life in Red Deer, as he has ever been most honorable, fair and above board in all his dealings with this paper; but we are pleased to see he has confidence in the future of Red Deer, as he purchased A. B. Purdy's house and lots last week and some lots on Alexandra street, and is looking around for more. In Major H. L. Gaetz, Mr. Hall has a worthy successor. The Major has been brought up to the dry good business all his life and is a good judge of the needs of the community in his line. We bespeak for him a continuance of the favors extended to his predecessor, C. E Hall.

Marriage of Former Red Deer Young Lady.

A very interesting event took place at noon today, Sept. 7th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sladu, 554, 13th St., Edmonton, when their only daughter Miss Eva Elizabeth was united in marriage to Mr. H. Sutherland Craig, manager of the Merchants Bank, Wetaskiwin, by the Rev. F. W. Patterson of the First Baptist Church. The bride looked very sweet and dainty in her lovely robe of rich ivory oriental satin, with pearl ornaments and embroidered tulle veil and orange blossoms. She carried a beautiful bouquet of white bridal roses and ferns. The bridesmaid, Miss Heathcote of Wetaskiwin, wore a white lingerie frock with a bouquet of pink roses. The groom was ably assisted by Mr. R. W. Manly also of Wetaskiwin. The house was handsomely decorated with palms and ferns by Ramsay, while the table decoration was tastefully carried out with pink and white balsams and ferns from B. C. About twenty-six guests sat down to a delightful wedding breakfast at which the centre of attraction was a splendid three tier wedding cake. Mr. and Mrs. Craig left on the afternoon train from Strathcona for Toronto, Chicago and Eastern points. The bride's travelling dress was a lovely coat and skirt of grey, with embroidered silk waist, hat trimmed grey and silver en suite relieved with blue plumes. The numerous gifts from a wide circle of friends testified to the popularity of the young couple. They will reside in Wetaskiwin.

BORDEN RETURNS To OTTAWA

OTTAWA, Sept. 4, — R. L. Borden the opposition leader returned to the capital Saturday to attend the funeral of Mrs. George H. Perley, wife of the chief conservative whip, who died suddenly in England. Mrs Perley was prominent amongst the little band of lady campaigners for the conservative party.

Mr. Borden will remain until September 12, when he begins his Ontario fall campaign. He speaks at Renfrew in the afternoon of that day and at Arnprior in the evening. His next meeting is at Huntsville on September 14. The opposition leader seems to be in excellent health and spirits.

BYE-ELECTION WRITS ARE EXPECTED SOON

Writs for the bye-elections in Gleichen and McLeod, will, it is expected, be issued within a few days, Premier Sifton who has been touring the province with Premier Laurier, will return to the city on Tuesday, and it is understood that he will at once proceed to issue writs and announce the dates of the elections.

Candidates in both constituencies have been nominated and the electors have been preparing for some weeks for the elections which they soon expect. It is understood that the elections will be held towards the close of September, and that the sessions of the legislature will be called very soon after.

BRITISH INVESTORS' INTEREST IN CANADA.

In the seven months ending with July, 127,285 immigrants entered this country from the United Kingdom. Of these less than 70,000 came to the Prairie Provinces. The figures compiled by Mr. J. Bruce Walker, Commissioner of Immigration, show that 59,790 people from the British Isles came into the Canadian West in the first six months of the calendar year. This would not be greatly increased by the arrivals in July, as in that month immigration from Transatlantic countries is not usually large and the people who then come are not as a rule bound for the West.

Of the British who come to the Canadian West it is hoped that the great majority settle on the land. It was not so a few years ago. Most of the British immigrants of that time were town dwellers, and their numbers went to swell the population of Western towns and cities. The visit of the Scottish Agricultural Commissioners to Canada some years ago was of undoubted benefit to the country, more substantial farmers in the lowlands of Scotland and in the north of England having been influenced by the commissioners' report to try their fortune here. The investment of British money in this country has also been a stimulus to the movement of British emigration in the direction of Canada. In recent years as much as $200,000,000 annually has been drawn from the United Kingdom to this country by the issue there of various classes of Canadian securities. As the bonds and shares of our railway and industrial corporations and the debentures of our municipalities become diffused in British investment circles through the agency of underwriters, the number of British people having a stake in this country and a consequent interest in speaking well of it keeps on increasing. The more capital that Canada draws from the United Kingdom, the more will the number of Canada's friends there continue to multiply. There is scarcely a British neighborhood nowadays in which holders of Canadian securities are not to be found. These may not always be voluble in their praise of Canada, but what they have to say about it will gennerally be favorable. Many an intending emigrant from the British Isles has had his steps turned towards Canada by some thrifty or wealthy neighbor's expressions of confidence in this country's resources.

The British investor in Canada advises people to come here, first, because he himself is a believer in Canada; second, because he naturally wants to build up a country in which he himself has made a capital venture. Thus Canada's interests are being doubly promoted by a very solid class of British people. The men who come here at the suggestion of the men who have invested here are themselves likely to be persons of worth.

A. J. McArthur to Run in Gleichen Riding.

Calgary, Aug. 29.—Eighty-three delegates, representing the constituency, were present tonight at a convention to nominate a candidate for the Gleichen riding in the provincial legislature. The names of A. J. McArthur, of Crescent Heights, and Roy Cowan of Langdon, were placed before the convention. On the first ballot McArthur received 62 votes and Cowan 21, and the nomination of McArthur was afterwards made unanimous.

E. H. Riley, ex-M.P.P., was not present and his name was not mentioned by the convention during the entire evening.

In accepting the nomination Mr. McArthur expressed his fullest confidence in the Sifton government, and said it would be a mistake if Gleichen did not elect a supporter of the government. He did not seek the nomination, but he would put up the best fight possible to win.

A resolution of confidence in the Liberal administration at Edmonton, under the leadership of Hon. A. L. Sifton, and pledging heartiest support, was passed unanimously.

Mr. McArthur resigned the presidency of the Gleichen Liberal Association, and Roy Cowan was elected president.

Brief speeches followed and the details of organization were advanced.

Local and General

John Goss left Wednesday for England.

A car of hogs was shipped to Vancouver by N. H. Sorenson Thursday last.

Rev. L. E. Goeling is nicely recovered from his recent illness, and he took services at Penhold and Ridgewood Sunday last.

Mrs. Rutter and her guests, Mrs. Callinan and Mrs. Hunt, of St. Louis, have returned from a pleasant outing at Banff and Laggan.

Miss Gilleland, bookkeeper with N. Murphy & Co., intends taking a course in stenography and music at Alberta College, probably commencing next month.

Mrs. R. H. Fairley, Calgary, Miss Howlett, of Creekbank, Ont., and Miss Ripley, of Nappan, Nova Scotia, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. J Gaetz.

Rev. H. G. Livingstone, pastor of Barton Street Methodist Church, Hamilton, was visiting his cousin, C. E. Hall, last week, on his return from the Methodist General Conference. Mr. Livingstone, like Mr. Kerby at Calgary, is a fixture at Barton Street. He has been returned by Conference to this station for the eighth year. He conducts a young men's class of 175 in connection with his work.

Mr. Wallace Simmons, a farmer from Rossbank, Man., was stopped on the street in Toronto and received a $100 bill from a stranger in exchange for four fives. He said nothing, thinking the joke was on the stranger, who quickly disappeared. When he afterwards tried to pass the bill he was arrested, it being a Confederate bill worth about five cents for a sackful.

Cancer May Be Conquered.

San Francisco, Aug. 30. — Cancer, the disease which has baffled medical science for years, may be conquered at last. Dr. P. K. Gilman of Oakland, professor of surgery in Philippine Medical school and surgeon in chief of the Philippine general hospital in Manila, believes he has discovered a vaccine which will stop the ravages of the dread disease.

With this vaccine Dr. Gilman has cured 20 cases in Manila. In his laboratory there he has been working for three years on his discovery and is now prepared to give to the world the fuirt of his labors. He has prepared an article for publication in the Journal of Science, medical and scientific review published by the Bureau of Science of the United States, in which the details of this cure will be made public.

Dr. Gilman has been asked to demonstrate his discovery before the royal California institute of Havana. He has been in communication with Dr. Simon Flexner, director of the Rockefeller institute in New York city, which was established for the study and cure of cancer, and Dr. Flexner is greatly interested in the discovery.

In perfecting this vaccine Dr. Gilman was assisted by Dr. A. F. Coca, pathologist in the Bureau of Science at Manila. Vaccine has never been resorted to before surgery and electricity being the only known methods ouring the disease.

Dr. Gilman was born in Oakland and was graduated from the Oakland public schools. He received a degree from Leland Stanford university in 1901 and finished a three-years' course at Johns Hopkins in 1905. He turned to his home in Oakland on board transport Logan a week ago, on a six-months leave of absence.

Terrible Death in Machinery.

Edmonton, August 31.—Burt Wendel, employed at P. Anderson & Co's. brick yard, Strathcona, to look after the belting and machinery, was caught in the shafting yesterday, and whirled round at a fearful velocity. The force of his body broke a six by two, and an eight by two plank, and two one-inch steam pipes. When the machinery was stopped his body was hanging over the shaft. He was removed to the hospital where he died this morning. His right leg was frightfully mangled, both knees dislocated, the heel of the left foot torn off, and the base of his skull fractured. The coroner's jury found that death was due to being caught in an improperly safeguarded shaft.

Frost & Wood No. 3 Binder
Has a Strong "Back Bone"

The Frost & Wood No. 3 Binder is built to stand more hard knocks than a binder is commonly supposed to encounter. Striking a bolder or bumping over rough ground does not affect this binder. That's because the binder's back bone consists of heavy pieces of steel firmly rivetted together and because the platform is connected to the main power frame by a double steel brace. It's the Quality in material and workmanship that the makers put into the Frost & Wood No. 3 Binder that enables it to give three to five times as many years of service as ordinary binders.

We would like the privilege of showing you the construction of this binder. Then you can be your own judge as to its strength. We would also like to point out to you the Advantages of the Eccentric Sprocket Wheel, which is found on no other binder. This Eccentric Sprocket Wheel makes neater, more compact, easier-to-shock bundles and discharges them faster than ordinary binders. We also wish you to see the No. 3 Knotter, which never hesitates an instant, no matter how hard and fast you ask it to work.

Drop in on us at your earliest convenience. We'll be pleased to see you any time. We believe we will make your visit interesting, too.

BEEF AND DAIRY TYPES

Prof. W. B. Richards, of the North Dakota Agricultural coll ge, speaks interestingly relative to types of beef and dairy cattle.

"Many farmers continue to raise cattle for market for beef purposes from stock that do not possess any blood of the beef breed, and consequently they lack what is known as the beef type. It is impossible to produce beef economically from cattle of the dairy type, or even from cattle that possess any considerable amount of this blood. To produce an animal of beef type it is necessary to use the beef breeds of cattle, such as the Shorthorns, Herefords, Aberdeen-Angus and Galloways. Cattle of this breeding put on flesh very much more rapidly and of a better quality.

A beef animal could be described in a general way as a low down compact blocky animal. He must have a short blocky head, a wide breast, a deep wide chest, a broad neck, a good spring of ribs, heavy full thighs. He must have a pliable mellow skin, for this quality indicates a good fleshing tendency.

The points that a cow should possess if adapted to economical milk production are quite the opposite from what is seen in the beef animal. The dairy cow possesses a long face, thin slender neck, a sharp projecting shoulder. She is not very wide in the chest, but her capacity of chest is due to her depth which is greater in proportion to her size than you will find in the beef animal. She possesses large barrels which indicates a good capacity for digesting the food. Her depth here should exceed her depth in any other portion of the body. A dairy cow should have a good width at the hips. Her thighs should be lean and free from muscling. She should be open between her thighs.

Much attention should be given the udder of the dairy cow—a large udder does not indicate that it is a good one. They are often very fleshy; a good udder should be elastic and pliable, and shows many folds when milked out. The teats should be placed equal distances apart and which is generally always the case if the udder is symmetrical and well proportioned. Large milk veins are good indications, the more winding and branching they are the better the indication. The veins do not carry milk, as many think, but carry the blood from the udder to the body, and the more blood that passes through the udder the more milk there is produced because the milk is produced from the blood.

A good dairy cow possesses rather thin pliable elastic skin. A coarse, harsh handling skin is a poor indication. When cows possess these qualities of skin they are rarely good producers of milk.

The change of dietary that comes with spring and summer has the effect in weak stomachs of setting up inflammation, resulting in dysentery and cholera morbus. The abnormal condition will continue if not attended and will cause an exhaustive drain on the system. The best available medicine is Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. It clears the stomach and bowels of irritants, counteracts the inflammation and restores the organs to healthy action.

Census of Forest Products

The census of the forest products of Canada, to be taken on 1st June, 1911, will embrace square, waney or flat timber, logs for lumber and miscellaneous products.

In the first class are included ash, birch, elm, maple, oak, pine and all other timber cut as square, waney or flat, and in the enumeration will be reported for cubic feet and value.

Logs for lumber, which are included in the second class, are in such woods as elm, hickory, hemlock, oak, pine and spruce. They will be enumerated in the census by quantities of 1,000 feet board measure, with values in the same unit.

Miscellaneous products of the forest include bark for tanning, fence posts, firewood, hoop and hop poles, masts and spars, piling, pot and pearl ashes, railroad ties, staves, stave-bolts and heading, telegraph poles (including telephone and other poles for electric wires), wood pulp, and the furs, and skins of forest animals undressed, and they will be enumerated by number or quantity and value.

The census of forest products will be taken chiefly from farmers and the lessees of timber limits.

PREACHING TO ALL NATIONS

Sermon by CHARLES T. RUSSELL, Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle.

"For this cause was this Gospel preached also to them that are dead, that they might be judged according to men in the flesh, but alive according to God in the spirit" (I. Peter iv., 6).

Jamestown, N.Y., Aug. 7.—Pastor Russell of the Brooklyn Tabernacle to-day addressed a very large meeting of Bible students in Celoron Auditorium. The occasion was a General Convention of Bible Students. The audience was estimated at nearly 6,000. Taking for his text the above words, the speaker said:

The Bible, to be understood, must be viewed from its own standpoint. This, as Bible students, we are learning more and more particularly every day. In the past we have read our Bibles "up-side-down." Many read as a duty; others as a sort of charm that would placate Divine Justice and bring us Divine favor. Now we are learning to read the Bible in a common-sense way, and to use our reasoning faculties in connection with its statements and prophecies. As a consequence, while others are falling from the faith—some into infidelity styled Higher Criticism and Evolution; others into fanciful wrestings of the Word of God—we are coming to appreciate the Bible as the most safe and sane Book in the world. Correspondingly our faith in God increases—faith in his Wisdom, Justice, Love and Power to accomplish all the good purposes which he purposed in himself before the creation of our race. Correspondingly, too, we are coming to appreciate more than ever the value of the great Redeemer and of the great sacrifice for sin which he accomplished at Calvary. We are coming to see the truth of what we once considered poetic license when we sang,

"There's a wideness in God's mercy
Like the wideness of the sea."

We are seeing more clearly as the days go by the meaning of the Scripture which declares that eventually the Redeemer, "shall see of the travail of his soul and be satisfied." We perceive now that the little handful of saints walking in the Master's footsteps from Pentecost to his Second Advent and sharing in the "First Resurrection" is not the end of Divine Love for our race, but merely its beginning—"A first-fruits unto God of his creatures" (James i, 18). We are now seeing that, according to the Divine purpose, the calling and election of the Church to the spirit nature, to the divine nature, must be completed before the second step in the great Divine Plan of Salvation begins—the recovery of the world from sin and death, and its uplift to human perfection and Paradise restored.

No Bible topic requires more careful discrimination in its study than does the subject of death. This is mainly because of the general confusion of mind which came upon Christendom during the long centuries of the Church's comparative darkness, when Bibles (the Lamp of God upon the Christian's path) were scarce, and when few could read the truths of priceless value, that were chained to lecterns. In consequence of this confusion we hear intelligent people talk ignorantly and stupidly respecting death. They make confusion worse confounded by telling us of Adam's spiritual death and discussing "natural" death and "the death that never dies," etc., etc.

To get the Bible view of death we need to brush away such foolish babblings and confine ourselves to Bible language and the rational thought connected therewith. For instance, according to the Bible, there is no "natural death"—it is not natural for man to die. It is according to the Bible arrangement and man's nature that he should live—live eternally, as do the angels, if obedient to the Divine commands. Death, therefore, is the unnatural thing! Do we think of angels as dying, and of heaven as filled with cemeteries? Have they doctors and undertakers there? Surely not! Yet it would be just as proper to speak of natural death amongst the angels as in respect to men.

The term spiritual death so frequently used respecting Adam and his fall is wholly unscriptural. No such expression is found in the Bible; neither such a thought. Adam could not die a spiritual death, because he was not a spirit being. He was an earthly being—not an angel, but a man. As the Scriptures declare of Adam, "Thou madest him a little lower than the angels; and crownest him with glory and honor, and didst set him over the works of thy hands"; "over the beasts of the field, the fish of the sea and the fowl of the air" (Hebrews ii, 7; Psalm viii, 5, 6).

It is, therefore, absurd for us to dominate upon the death of Adam dying a spiritual death, while admitting that he was not a spirit being. It was simply the man Adam that died. His death, however, included the gradual processes of decay, and affected not only his bones and muscles, but also his brains—his every mental and moral quality. The sentence, "Dying, thou shalt die," took hold of him as an entirety; hence we find, as the Scriptures declare, that there is "none righteous; no, not one"—none mentally, morally or physically right. All have sinned. All come short of the glory of God in which Adam was created. From the moment of disobedience and Divine condemnation Adam and his race have been judicially dead and gradually going down, down, down, in degradation and into the tomb.

Speaking of the dying race from the judicial standpoint our Saviour called them all dead. He declared that none has even a reckoned life, except such as by faith accepted him as their Life-giver—Saviour. His words are, "He that hath the Son hath life; he that hath not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him" (John iii, 36). Speaking to one who believed on him the Saviour said, "Let the dead bury their dead"; go thou and preach the Gospel (Matthew viii, 22). From the right standpoint his meaning is evident. Let the dead, the condemned and legally dead world, look out for its own affairs. You become one of my followers and carry my message of life and hope to as many as have ears to hear!

Thus the whole world of mankind through heredity, through inherited weaknesses, through participation in the sentence that came upon father Adam justly, are all judicially dead in trespasses and in sins—not one of the race is worthy of eternal life upon the only terms and conditions which God can offer—namely, perfection and obedience to the Divine standards.

Jesus preached the Gospel amongst those judicially dead through trespasses and sins. A few had the hearing ear and accepted the good message and gave their hearts to God and accepted the terms of discipleship—to walk in the Master's footsteps in the narrow way faithfully unto death—willingly offering, sacrificially, their little all in the service of God, his Truth, his righteousness, his cause. These few, as we have seen, the Saviour recognizes as having life—as having "passed from death unto life" (John v, 24); nevertheless their change was only a legal one. Actually, according to the flesh, they were still imperfect, fallen, dying. But by Divine arrangement their new minds, their new wills, were accepted of God in Christ and their flesh ignored as dead, and they were begotten by God of the Holy Spirit as New Creatures and became sons of God. As sons they were free from all the previous condemnation that came upon them as members of Adam's race—freed through the imputation of the merit of the Redeemer's sacrifice applied on their behalf. They had been begotten to the liberty of the sons of God—freedom from sin-condemnation. So we read of them:

"He came unto his own (nation—Jews) and his own received him not; but to as many as received him, to them gave he power (liberty, privilege) to become sons of God—even to them that believe on his name (his greatness as Messiah), who were begotten not of the will of the flesh, nor of man, but of God" (John i, 13).

A similar procedure has been in progress throughout all this Gospel Age from Pentecost until now amongst the world of mankind judicially dead. It has reached a considerable number; but not many great, however, not many wise, not many rich, not many noble, not many learned, chiefly the poor of this world and the mean things, the ignoble things (I. Corinthians i, 26-28).

While speaking of believers begotten of the Holy Spirit and New Creatures in Christ Jesus as having passed from death unto life, the Bible, with equal explicitness, tells us that the resurrection of the mind, the will of the New Creature, is not the completion of his salvation. He has received a great blessing, a great salvation, but what he now enjoys is merely a foretaste, an "earnest," or handpayment of the great blessing which he will receive eventually, if faithful to his Covenant unto death. The fruition of the hopes of the New Creation will be attained in the end of this Age at the Second Coming of the Redeemer, when he comes to set up his Kingdom in power and great glory for the blessing and salvation of the world, when "every knee shall bow and every tongue confess" (Psalm vii 23). The Scriptures point to the New Creation, the Body of Christ, the "saints," the Church, to that illustrious day as the time when they shall experience their glorious change from earthly to heavenly conditions—when in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye the resurrection power will lift them wholly out of earthly conditions to the perfection of the "Divine Nature."

Describing this "First Resurrection" of the saints the apostle says, "It is sown in dishonor, it is raised in glory; it is sown in weakness, it is raised in power; it is sown a natural body, it is raised a spiritual body" (I. Corinthians xv, 43, 44). Respecting this glorious consummation of the hopes of the Church, the Apostle declares it to be the end of the Gospel, the salvation of our souls—"the grace (salvation) that shall be brought unto you at the revelation of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ" (I. Peter i, 13). For that glorious time the Lord's people are to wait patiently, realizing that, as New Creatures, they are being tested by the weaknesses and frailties of their old bodies reckoned dead. They are to show their loyalty to God by fighting a good fight against the weaknesses of the flesh, against the allurements of the world and the snares of the Adversary.

Consider now, in the light of the foregoing, the meaning of St. Peter's words used as our text. We perceive how the Gospel message from first to last has been preached to a dead world—to a world under sentence of death—to a world dead in trespasses and in sin and unworthy of Divine notice. The message has not gone forth to every creature yet. The Divine promise is that eventually every eye shall see and every ear shall be unstopped, and then "the knowledge of the Lord shall fill the whole earth" and "every knee shall bow and every tongue confess." But that will be during Messiah's Kingdom of righteousness, which will last for a thousand years for the world's uplifting. That time has not yet come; hence that glorious message which all must hear and those glorious sights which all must see and all confess are not yet revealed. As yet the message can be appreciated only by a comparatively small proportion of our race, even as many as the Lord our God shall call. The Redeemer says that they must not only be thus "called of God," but that they must be "drawn" by him, in order to be blessed during this Age. He says, No man can come unto me, except the Father which sent me draw him, and he that cometh unto me (thus drawn) I will in no wise reject (John vi, 44, 37). For these few of the dead world the Gospel in the present time is intended. No others have the ear to hear. But while those who hear are few in comparison to the millions of the world who do not hear, nevertheless they are many in comparison to the still fewer who accept the call under the conditions and limitations of the narrow way of self sacrifice. "Many are called, but few chosen" to this high calling of joint heirship with the Redeemer in his Kingdom.

By and by when all eyes and ears of understanding shall be opened and the blessing of the Lord through Messiah shall be world-wide, it will not be merely a calling to righteousness that will be extended. A command will be enforced by disciplines, "stripes," "corrections in righteousness," to the intent that the "dead" world in general may be blessed and be resurrected—lifted up, up, up, out of sin and death conditions to the human perfection bestowed upon Adam and his race in creation. Only the unwilling and disobedient will die the Second Death, from which there will be no redemption, no recovery.

Those who hear the Gospel and accept its terms of consecration unto death of the flesh and are begotten of the Holy Spirit as New Creatures, "partakers of the divine nature," have so to speak, a dual existence from the time of their begettal of the Spirit. From God's standpoint they are New Creatures begotten to the divine nature, which, if faithful, they will fully obtain in the "First Resurrection." Yet according to all worldly concept of the matter they are still human beings, very much the same as they were prior to the consecration and Spirit begetting. The world may, indeed, see certain changes more or less radical in their conduct and words, but, like as not, these will appear to the worldly merely as fads, fancies, eccentricities. Perhaps, indeed, as in the case of St. Paul, they may be considered as "besides themselves"—mad. Hence, as the Apostle declares "the world knoweth us not, even as it knew him not" (I. John iii, 1). The world did not know Jesus to be begotten of the Holy Spirit, the Son of the Highest, etc., nor does the world yet know that he is highly exalted at the Father's Right Hand. So also it is with the followers of Jesus. They similarly have received a Spirit begetting and, similarly, in due time are to experience the glorious change of the "First Resurrection" and be perfected on the new plane of the divine nature.

Note again the Apostle's words respecting these Spirit-begotten followers of Jesus, the "little flock," who walk in his footsteps of self-sacrifice. He says that these will be judged according to men in the flesh, but according to God in the Spirit. Men not knowing us as New Creatures in Christ may think of us and approve or condemn as they would think of and approve or condemn others—according to the flesh. The world will not see that in these New Creatures there is a battle in progress—the New Creature seeking to conquer the flesh and to bring it into subjection to the Divine will, but not always able to do so.

All we can do is to do our best, whether our best shall be as good as or better than that of our fellow-creatures who are not Spirit-begotten, but who may be less depraved by nature—nobler by heredity. Our consolation as New Creatures is that we are not to be judged by human judgment, but by him who called us and drew us to himself, who sanctified us through the blood of the Cross, and who began us with his own Holy Spirit to his own divine nature. He will judge us according to the standard—according to our minds, according to our intentions, according to our efforts. To the faithful who at heart are overcomers the Lord eventually will say, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant! Enter into the joy of thy Lord. Thou hast been faithful over a few things; I will make thee ruler over many things" (Matthew xxv. 21).

Had No Navy

Arnold Hollinger, the Swiss consul in Chicago, was discussing a very lawless South American state.

"What would it not do," he said, "if America and England and Germany didn't keep it in order? Even as it is——"

Mr. Hollinger laughed, then resumed:

"A Swiss subject was arrested down there on some trifling charge—riding a bicycle, I think, on the sidewalk—and when the magistrate heard the accusation, he turned to the prisoner and said:

"'What is your nationality?'

"'I am a Swiss.'

"'Swiss! Aha. And Switzerland has no seacoast, has it?'

"'No, sir.'

"'And no navy, either, eh?'

"'No, sir; no navy.'

"'Very well, then; you are sentenced to two years at hard labor.'"

The tears of the last downfall were still rolling over the rosy cheeks, but the child looked from his adviser to the shining steel on his feet and answered, half indignantly:

"I didn't get some new skates to give up with; I got 'em to learn how with."

An old captain and his mate went into a restaurant near the docks and ordered dinner. The waiter placed a plate of curious liquid before them.

"I say, young fellow, what's this stuff?" shouted the captain.

"Soup, sir," replied the waiter.

"Soup!" shouted the old sea-dog "Soup, Bill" (turning to the mate), "just think of that. Here you and me have been sailin' on soup all our lives, an' never knowed it till now!"

THE CONSERVATIVE SPLIT.

Under this head the Calgary Albertan quotes from the Moose Jaw News to show that there is a feeling against R. B. Bennett being leader of the Conservative party in Alberta. The Albertan goes far afield for information as to the feelings regarding Mr. Bennett. There has been no revolt against Mr. Bennett, and the Moose Jaw News should be acquainted with that fact. Mr. Bennett himself declined the leadership for private reasons, and that settled the matter. While he is a particularly clever man and twisted the whole Liberal party into a shapeless mass without apparently exerting himself to any great extent, still he might not make a good leader, but he could have the honor if he wanted it. But the statement that he was turned down because he made friends with the Liberal Insurgents is too absurd for anything. Mr. Bennett practically opposed that very thing in the Conservative caucus. He doesn't want a people's party or a hybrid combination without sense or smell. He charged that Mr. Haultain took a number of them to his bosom, and all they left him was the sting.

What is bothering the Liberal press is that they cannot find out what the Conservative member for Calgary is going to do; and until they find out they are all at sea—afraid he has another ace or two up his sleeve to cause confusion in their ranks.

PLAYING THE POLITICAL GAME.

The Advocate charges the News with backsliding from the courteous tone adopted during the Premier's visit, and now we are saying that the West is in insurrection against Sir Wilfrid, that "all accounts bear out the impression that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's reception in the West has been of a character to arouse in him lively apprehensions as to the future."

But our cotem says "all this is pure bluff and nonsense and the narrowest and most untrue hide-bound party twaddle."

Well, all we can say is that if he has not "lively apprehensions" he is not much of a statesman.

We have only to quote the Calgary Albertan, the leading Liberal organ, to prove it was a political tour, as it declares that there is no reason for complaining of Sir Wilfrid as having a decided partisan tinge since "he came out on a political tour." And the Vancouver News-Advertiser was constrained to remark that the point would have been better taken if Conservative leaders in British Columbia had not been requested to join in a welcome to the premier on the ground that his was a non-political tour.

But the real object of the trip has been apparent from the start. Premier Laurier has party duties to perform, and he is performing them. As our Vancouver contemporary observes there is no reason why Conservatives should not welcome the resultant opportunity for a wholesome discussion of the questions introduced by Sir Wilfrid's stumping tour. And if some gentle souls in the Liberal party who wished to suppress all political discussion by Conservatives in deference to an exaggerated idea of the politeness due to the premier while he was in the West have made themselves somewhat ridiculous, they owe that fact to the false pretense under which the premier set forth on his journey.

HOG FEEDING.

The Alberta Homestead had the following article on hog raising in its last issue:

Bernard Hibbert of Knee Hill Valley, Alberta, who was a visitor at the Edmonton fair, reports the results of interesting experiments in feeding hogs. Mr. Hibbert raises Yorkshire grades and O.I.C. porkers, and he declares that the latter consume only half as much feed as the former.

"I measured my feed very carefully," said Mr. Hibbert, "and the amount fed was also checked by our local school teacher and another party who verified my figures. I found that it cost me just two cents per pound to bring my hogs up to 125 pounds, and three cents per pound to bring them up to 200 pounds. I fed shorts, mixing the feed with water to the consistency of cream. Shorts, I have found, make the best feed for young pigs, say up to 100 pounds. They cost me $1 to $1.25 per cwt. For the same amount of gain, I found that the Yorkshire grades ate just twice as much feed as the O.I.C. pigs. I have always been partial to the Yorkshires and I was surprised to find that they had such appetites. But the records were there and I know they are correct." (The editor would like to hear from other hog raisers on this subject. A farmer should be able to tell pretty nearly what it costs to produce a marketable hog.)

The reason farmers in this section of country prefer Yorkshires is that they are sure breeders, raise large litters, are hardy, do not put on too much fat, and are good feeders on coarse fare. If the O.I.C. breed meets all these requirements, and only requires half the feed, then Mr. Hibbard has solved the problem of cheaper hogs. As he is a raiser of Yorkshire grades, he ought to be conversant with the good qualities of this excellent breed of hogs, but unless he has been in Alberta for a number of years, and tried both breeds under numerous adverse circumstances, we would advise him to continue his experiments along the line of staple feed, barley and oats, such as most farmers feed, and green pasture in summer, and if the O. I. Cs. still give better results, then let the farmers know it, and he will be going a great service to the people of Alberta.

Ottawa Free Press: Those who predicted a crop failure in western Canada have proven false prophets by over a hundred million bushels of wheat, by over another hundred million bushels of oats, and by a goodly crop of barley and flax. If this be the case in so exceptional a year as this, what will the yield be in a good season? The three railways will have all they can do to handle the crop as it is.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER AT LETHBRIDGE

MEETS FARMER DELEGATES.

Farewell to the West.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier practically completed his tour of the west at Lethbridge on Wednesday last. He did not spare himself, but took the principal part with enthusiasm in an auto tour of Lethbridge; the reception of a delegation of southern Alberta farmers, the last that will approach him in the west, and the opening of the new $60,000 wing of Galt hospital. The morning's programme also included the banqueting of E. M. Macdonald, M.P. of Pictou, Nova Scotia, by the Canadian club, at the Alexandra hotel.

At 2 o'clock the Premier and his party left for Medicine Hat.

The following address was read to him by James Bower, President of the United Farmers of Alberta:

The Right Honorable Sir Willird Laurier.
Prime Minister of Canada.
Sir:—

On behalf of the United Farmers of Alberta of which Association I am President, also on behalf of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, of which I am a Vice President, I wish to take this opportunity at the close of your Western tour to tender to you our thanks for the kindly manner in which you have received our deputations, and the consideration you have given to our requests. Also, for the intimation you have given us that on your return to Ottawa you will be prepared to receive a further deputation from our Farmers Association to go more deeply into questions which we have brought up. Believe me, sir, that we appreciate this consideration on your part and that any deputation that may wait on you will be made up of men who have unprejudiced evidence as to how these things affect the welfare of the country at large. The personnel of the Western Farmers Association is not made up of professional agitators as some would try to make it appear, but it is made up of men who have the best interest of the country at heart, and I think I may safely say that on the whole they are not even pressing for the immediate government ownership of public utilities as a principle, but in specific matters like the grain elevators, and a meat chilling system, for which there is a pressing demand and where the abuses of private ownership are so flagrant, we do not believe that any confidence can be created among the producers until the Government take these over. We do not believe that combines and monopolies can be effectively controlled, simply by putting in operation a criminal law. This has been proved a failure both in the United States and Canada, the fines inflicted becoming only a license for the combines to continue their operations, while the Government operation of Creameries here has been a success, not only as a business venture in themselves, but chiefly in their being an incentive to increased production and better quality.

We hope, sir, that we have not wearied you with our persistence in presenting to your notice our claims in these matters, and that when you return East, you will carry with you a remembrance of the Western Farmers as men who want only what is just and fair and who will not be satisfied with anything less.

We now wish you a safe and pleasant journey home and that many happy years may be added to your long and useful public life.

The following address was also presented to the Minister of Railways by the U.F.A. and the Canadian Council of Agriculture:

To The Honorable George Graham, Minister of Railways.
Sir:—

In behalf of the Canadian Council of Agriculture and in behalf of the Western Farmers Associations in regard to the railway act, pertaining to the killing of stock, I wish to respectfully submit the following:

In reply to the resolution submitted to you at Red Deer you stated that an amendment had recently been made which gave cattle owners a better claim for damages against the Railway Company, when injury had been sustained. However, we find, by a careful perusal of the amended clause that it leaves the cattle owner in a much worse state than before, for, while the meaning is very ambiguous, it leaves the way open for a cause of action against the stock owner by the Railway Company or other interested party.

We further respectfully submit that if it is the honest desire of the Department of Railways to protect the stock owner of Canada from injustice at the hands of the railway companies, that they should at once take steps to remove this ambiguity from the reading of the Railway Act, and make plain what is intended.

As a matter of fact there are hundreds of cases where the Companies evade payment, where in all fairness the stock owners should have a right to recover, and it is our belief that they will continue to evade these just claims until the first clause of Section 294 of the Act be repealed and the whole section reconstructed.

The Sub-sections 1 and 4 of which we complain read as follows:

Section 294.

Sub-section 1.

No horses, sheep, swine, or other cattle shall be permitted to be at large upon any highway within half a mile of the intersection of such highway with any railway at rail level, unless they are in charge of some competent person, or persons, to prevent their loitering or stopping on such highway at such intersection or straying upon the railway.

Amended Sub-section 4.

When any horses, sheep, swine, or other cattle at large, whether upon the highway or not get upon the property of the Company and by reason thereof damage is caused to or by such animal, the party suffering such damage shall, except in the cases otherwise provided for by the next following section be entitled to recover the amount of such damage against the company in any action in any court of competent jurisdiction, unless the Company establishes that such animal got at large through the negligence or wilful act of omission of the owner or his agent or the custodian of such animal or his agent.

These clauses take away the stock owners right to recover because by reason of this if an animal is not at the time actually under the eye of the owner, the Railway Company immediately establishes a claim that there has been negligence or omission on the part of the owner, which becomes a violation of the present law.

It has also been said that when some one invents a more effective cattle guard, the Department will order its use.

We reiterate that the Railway Companies should be held responsible for the loss of stock getting over the guards and that as "necessity is the mother of invention," they will then soon find an effective cattle guard.

Signed in behalf of the CANADIAN COUNCIL OF AGRICULTURE.

PREMIER'S REPLY

The Premier thanked the United Farmers for their address, and expressed his sorrow that Hon. Mr. Graham was too ill to be present in person to explain about the Railway Act.

"I am surprised to hear what I have been told by you," he said "but I am sure that Mr. Graham intended to protect the farmers, and that he still intends to protect them."

The premier repeated his views on the tariff and other questions put forward, declaring that he came to the west to ascertain its needs, and now he knew them. Once again stating his free trade leanings, he said he was in favor of a commission, which should travel the country and get into touch with all classes and conditions.

Increase in Trade With United States.

Canada's trade with the United States continues to grow in greater proportion than Canada's trade with Great Britain, in spite of the preferential tariff. Trade statistics are now complete for the first two months of the present fiscal year, and they throw a curious light on the policy of Canadian importers. Thus, while Great Britain bought $15,670,681 of Canadian goods, the United Kingdom sold almost equal to Canada, $15,734,650. The United States bought from Canada $14,104,681 worth, or more than a million less than Britain did, while Canada purchased from the United States $44,372,615 worth, or more than $29,000,000 in excess of purchases from the United Kingdom. The purchases from the United States are $13,000,000 more than during the same period last year.

If the present rate is maintained, imports from the United States during the present fiscal year will exceed those from Great Britain by over $170,000,000.

John Redmond Again Issues an Ultimatum.

London, Eng., Aug. 29.—John Redmond, the Irish parliamentary leader, in a speech at Kilkenny, said if Premier Asquith did not fulfil his pledge to give Ireland Home Rule after the Lord's veto is abolished, the Irish party would put him out of office.

William O'Brien invaded Mr. Dillon's territory in Mayo and declared in a speech that the government had never given a definite promise of Home Rule but had fooled Redmond.

A resolution was passed urging Americans to refuse to subsidize Redmond and O'Connor, who were going to the United States on a begging tour. Stone throwing and clubbing and firing off of revolvers by the rival factions, with the concomitant broken heads, followed. The police had to separate the fighters by making charges and using their batons freely.

Baby's Terrible Eczema.

Hands Tied to Prevent Scratching.

Five Doctors Failed to Relieve, but Zam-Buk Worked a Cure.

Mrs. Chas. Levere, of Prescott, North Channell, Ont., tells how Zam Buk cured her baby. She says:—"My baby's head and face was one complete mass of sores, The itching and irritation were fearful, and the little one's plight was so serious that at one time we feared her ears would be eaten off by the disease.

"We had to keep her hands tied for days to prevent her rubbing and scratching the sores. Doctor after doctor treated her in vain, until we had had five doctors. They all agreed it was a frightful case of eczema, but none of them did any permanent good.

"As a last resource we were advised to try Zam-Buk. The first box did so much good that we felt sure we were at last working in the right direction. We persevered with the treatment until we had used thirteen boxes, and at the end of that time I am glad to say Zam-Buk had effected a complete cure."

Mrs. Holmes, of 30 Guise Street, Hamilton, is quite as eloquent in her praise. She says:—"Zam-Buk cured my boy of boils and eruptions when he was so bad that he had been unable to mix with other children. Zam-Buk is a wonderful preparation, and mothers throughout the land should always keep it handy."

For eczema, eruptions, rashes, tetter, itch, ringworm, and similar skin diseases, Zam-Buk is without equal. It also cures cuts, burns, scalds, piles, abscesses, chronic sores, blood poisoning, etc. All druggists and stores at 50 cents a box, or post free for price from Zam-Buk Co. Toronto. Refuse imitations.

CHAPTER XXVII.

DUMFOUNDED with dismay by seeing in a flash how all his plans might be set at naught by Dorothy's unforeseen insubordination, Kirkwood took a step or two after her, but she was fleet of foot, and, remembering Hobbs, he halted.

By this time the mate, too, was running. Kirkwood could hear the heavy pounding of his clumsy feet. Already Dorothy had almost gained the farther corner. As she whisked round it with a flutter of skirts Kirkwood dodged hastily behind a gatepost. A thought later Hobbs appeared, head down, chest out, eyes straining for sight of his quarry, pelting along for dear life.

As, rounding the corner, he stretched out in swifter stride Kirkwood was inspired to put a spoke in his wheel, and a foot thrust suddenly out from behind the gatepost accomplished his purpose with more success than he had dared anticipate. Stumbling, the mate plunged headlong, arms and legs a-sprawl, and the momentum of his pace, though checked, carried him along the sidewalk, face downward, a full yard ere he could stay himself.

Kirkwood stepped out of the gateway and sheered off as Hobbs picked himself up, something which he did rather slowly, as if in a daze, without comprehension of the cause of his misfortune. And for a moment he stood pulling his wits together and swaying as though on the point of resuming his rudely interrupted chase, when the noise of Kirkwood's heels brought him about face.

"Ow, it's you, eh!" he snarled in a temper as vicious as his countenance.

"Myself," admitted Kirkwood fairly, and then, in a gleam of humor, "Weren't you looking for me?"

His rage seemed to take the little cockney and shake him by the throat. He trembled from head to foot, his face shockingly congested, and spat out dust and fragments of lurid blasphemy like an infuriated cat.

Of a sudden "Where's the gel?" he sputtered thickly as his quite shifting eyes for the first time noted Dorothy's absence.

"Miss Calendar has other business—none with you. I've taken the liberty of stopping you because I have a word or two"—

"Ow, you 'ave, 'ave you?. I've a word for you too! 'And over that bag—and look nippy or I'll myke you pye for w'at you've done to me. I'll myke you pye!" he iterated hoarsely, edging closer. "'And it over or"—

"You've got another guess"— Kirkwood began, but saved his breath in deference to an imperative demand on him for instant defensive action, for a six inch blade of tarnished steel was winging toward Kirkwood's throat with the speed of light.

Instinctively he stepped back, as instinctively he guarded with his right forearm, lifting the hand that held the satchel. The knife, catching in his sleeve, scratched the arm beneath painfully and simultaneously was twisted from the mate's grasp, while in his surprise Kirkwood's grip on the bag handle relaxed. It was torn forcibly from his fingers just as he received a heavy blow on his chest from the mate's fist. He staggered back.

By the time he had recovered from the shock Hobbs was a score of feet away, the satchel tucked under his arm, his body bent almost double, running like a buck rabbit. Ere Kirkwood could get under way pursuit the mate had dodged out of sight round the corner. When the American caught sight of him again he was far down the block and bettering his pace with every jump.

He was approaching, also, some six or eight good citizens of Calais, men of the laboring class, at a guess. Their attention attracted by his frantic flight, they stopped to wonder. One or two moved as though to intercept him, and he doubled out into the middle of the street with the quickness of thought. An instant later he shot around another corner and disappeared, the natives streaming after in hot chase, electrified by the inspiring stentor of "Stop thief!" or its French equivalent.

The mob straggled round yet another corner and was gone. Its clamor diminished on the still spring air, and Kirkwood, recovering, abandoned Mr. Hobbs to the justice of the high gods and the French system of jurisprudence. At least he hoped the latter would take an interest in the case if haply Hobbs were laid by the heels and went his way rejoicing.

As for the scratch on his arm, it was nothing, as he presently demonstrated to his complete satisfaction in the seclusion of a chance sent fiacre. Kirkwood, commissioning it to drive him to the American consulate, made his diagnosis en route, wound a handkerchief round the negligible wound, rolled down his sleeve and forgot it altogether in the joys of picturing to himself Hobbs in the act of opening the satchel in expectation of finding therein the gladstone bag.

At the consulate door he paid off the driver and dismissed him. The fiacre had served his purpose, and he could find his way to the Termious hotel at infinitely less expense. He had a considerably harder task before him as he ascended the steps to the consular doorway, knocked and made known the nature of his errand.

No malicious destiny could have timed the hour of his call more appositely. The consul was at home and at the disposal of his fellow citizens—within bounds.

In the course of thirty minutes or so Kirkwood emerged with dignity from the consulate, his face crimson to the hair, his soul smarting with shame and humiliation, and left an amused official representative of his country's government with the impression of having been entertained to the point of ennui by an exceptionally clumsy but pertinacious liar.

At noon precisely, his suspense grown too onerous for his strength of will, throwing caution and their understanding to the winds, he walked boldly into the Terminus and inquired for Miss Calendar.

When at length she appeared on the threshold of the apartment, bringing with her the travelling bag and looking wonderfully the better for her ninety minutes of complete repose and privacy, the relief he experienced was so intense that he remained rumbled in the middle of the floor, momentarily able neither to speak nor to move.

On her part, so fagged and distraught did he seem, that at sight of his careworn countenance she hurried to him with outstretched, compassionate hands and a low, pitiful cry of concern, forgetful entirely of that which he himself had forgotten—the emotion she had betrayed on parting.

"Oh, nothing wrong," he hastened to reassure her, with a sorry ghost of his familiar grin, "only I have lost Hobbs and the satchel with your things, and there's no sign yet of Mr. Calendar. We can feel pretty comfortable now, and—and I thought it time we had something like a meal."

The narrative of his adventure which he delivered over their dejeuner a la fourchette contained no mention either of his rebuff at the American consulate or the scratch he had sustained during Hobbs' murderous assault. The one could not concern her; the other would seem a bid for her sympathy. He counted it a fortunate thing that the mate's knife had been keen enough to penetrate the cloth of his sleeve without tearing it. The slit it had left was barely noticeable. And he purposely diverted the girl with flashes of humorous description, so that they discussed both meal and episode in a mood of wholesome merriment.

It was concluded, all too soon for the taste of either, by the waiter's announcement that the steamer was on the point of sailing.

Outwardly composed, inwardly quaking, they boarded the packet, meeting with no misadventure whatever—if we are to except the circumstance that when the restaurant bill was settled and the girl had punctiliously surrendered his change with the tickets Kirkwood found himself in possession of precisely 1 franc and 20 centimes.

He disappeared, the natives streaming after in hot chase.

He groaned in spirit to think how differently he might have been fixed had he not in his infatuated spirit of honesty been so anxious to give Calendar more than ample value for his money.

An inexorable anxiety held them both near the gangway until it was cast off and the boat began to draw away from the pier. Then, and not till then, did an unimpressive, small figure of a man detach itself from the shield of a pile of luggage and advance to the pier head. No second glance was needed to identify Mr. Hobbs, and until the perspective dwarfed him indistinguishably he was to be seen alternately waving Kirkwood ironic farewell and blowing violent kisses to Miss Calendar from the tips of his outstretched fingers.

So he had escaped arrest.

At first by turns indignant and relieved to realize that thereafter they were to move in scenes in which his hateful shadow would not form an essentially component part, subsequently Kirkwood fell a prey to prophetic terrors. It was not alone fear or retribution that had induced Hobbs to relinquish his persecution, or so Kirkwood had become convinced. If the mate's calculation had allowed for them the least Traction of a chance to escape apprehension on the farther shores of the channel, nor fears of such a thread would have prevented him from sailing with the fugitives. Far from having left danger behind them on the continent, Kirkwood believed in his secret heart that they were but flying to encounter it beneath the smoky pall of London.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

AS the evening boat train from Dover swung on toward Charing Cross for perhaps the tenth time in the course of his journey Kirkwood withdrew his gaze from the window and turned to the girl, a question ready framed upon his lips.

"Are you quite sure"— he began, and then, alive to the clear and penetrating perception in the brown eyes that smiled into his from under their level brows, he stammered and left the query uncompleted.

Continuing to regard him steadily and smilingly, Dorothy shook her head in playful denial and protest. "Do you know," she commented, "that this is about the fifth repetition of that identical question within the last quarter hour?"

"How do you know what I meant to say?" he demanded, staring.

"I can see it in your eyes. Besides, you've talked and thought of nothing else since we left the boat. Won't you believe me, please, when I say there's absolutely not a soul in London to whom I could go and ask for shelter? I don't think it's very nice of you to be so openly anxious to get rid of me."

This latter was so essentially undeserved and so artlessly insincere that he must needs, of course, treat it with all seriousness.

"That isn't fair, Miss Calendar. Really it's not."

"What am I to think? I've told you any number of times that it's only an hour's ride on to Chilters, where the Fyrfords will be glad to take me in. You may depend upon it, by 8 tonight, at the latest, you'll have me off your hands—the drag and worry that I've been ever since"—

"Don't!" he pleaded vehemently. "Please! You know it isn't that. I don't want you off my hands, ever. That is to say, I—ah"— Here he was smitten with a dumbness and sat, aghast at the enormity of his blunder, entreating her forgiveness with eyes that very likely pleaded his cause more eloquently than he guessed.

"I mean," he floundered on presently, in the blind belief that he could this time be able to control both mind and tongue—"what I mean is I'd be glad to go on serving you in any way I might to the end of time if you'd give me"—

He left the declaration inconclusive—a stroke of diplomacy that would have graced an infinitely more adept wooer. But he used it all unconsciously. "O Lord!" he groaned in spirit. "Worse and more of it! Why in thunder can't I say the right thing right?"

"Dear Mr. Kirkwood," she said gently, bending forward as if to read between the lines some anxiety traced on his countenance, "won't you tell me, please, what it can be that so worries you?"

In exasperation he interrupted almost rudely. "It's only this—I—I'm strapped."

"Strapped?" She knitted her brows over this fresh specimen of American slang.

"Flat strapped—busted—broke—on my uppers—down and out." He reeled off synonyms without a smile. "I haven't enough money to pay cab fare across the town"—

"Oh!" she interpolated, enlightened. —"to say nothing of taking us to Chilters. I couldn't buy you a glass of water if you were thirsty. There isn't a soul on earth within hail who would trust me with a quarter—I mean a shilling—across London bridge. I'm the original luckless wooder and the only genuine Jonah extant."

(To be Continued.)

And Father Agreed

Home study for Tommy had just begun and he found it hard to apply himself to regular hours. At bedtime one evening his father said: "Tommy, I am not at all pleased with the report your mother gives me of your conduct today."

"No, I suppose not, I knowed you wouldn't be, and I told her so. But she went right ahead an' made th' report. Jest like a woman, ain't it?"

Labels are everything. It's not what you are that counts; it's what you're called.—James Douglas.

Friend—I say one of your clocks is slow and the other's fast.

Young Lawyer—Yes, I start work for the slow one and stop by the other.

Carrying Power of Sound

Thunder is never heard more than fourteen miles from the flash of lightning. The report of artillery has reached much greater distances. The cannonading at the battle of Waterloo was heard at the town of Creil, in the North of France, about one hundred and fifteen miles from the scene of the conflict.

A truly eloquent parson had been preaching for an hour or so on the immortality of the soul.

"I looked at the mountains," he declaimed, "and could not help thinking: 'Beautiful as you are you will be destroyed, while my soul will not.' I gazed at the ocean and cried: 'Mighty as you are you will eventually dry up, but not I!'"

In its ten years of effort to increase the winter laying of hens, Macdonald college, Montreal, has accustomed hardy breeds like Plymouth Rocks, to scratch in snow and obtain their food by scratching all day in a spot of straw covering the yards. The active exercise prevents the accumulation of fat. The hens and their progeny live in unheated houses, and with good feeding average 200 eggs a year, nearly one-fourth of which are produced during the severe cold of the Canadian winter.

Getting Even

Young Softleigh—"Mr. Smith, your daughter has promised to marry me."

Old Smith—"Great Scott! She said she'd get even with me when I refused to buy her that puppy the other day."

Strange

Miss Homeleigh—Perhaps you won't believe it, but a strange man tried to kiss me once.

Miss Cutting—Really! Well, he'd have been a strange man if he tried to kiss you twice.

External Treatment Necessary for Eczema

Surprising Results Obtained from DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT in Treating This Obstinate Skin Trouble.

Eczema may arise from a variety of causes but once started it is a skin disease and will continue to spread and become more annoying until local external treatment effects a cure.

This is why Dr. Chase's Ointment has supplanted the old-fashioned internal treatments which were always disappointing in results.

When this soothing, healing ointment is applied you see and feel the benefits in short order. The itching, stinging sensations are overcome and with the wonderful relief thus obtained you are encouraged to continue the treatment until gradually the sores are healed up and the disease thoroughly wiped out.

What is so annoying and discouraging as disfiguring itching, skin diseases. In Dr. Chase's Ointment you have a cure for such ailments and this is so clean, pure and soothing that it becomes a great pleasure to use it. Its use makes the skin soft, smooth and velvety and for this reason it is much sought by persons whose skin is susceptible to the changes of the weather.

Mrs. Link, 12 Walker street, Halifax, N.S., states: "After three years of miserable torture and sleepless nights with terrible eczema, and after trying over a dozen remedies without obtaining anything but slight temporary relief, I have been perfectly and entirely cured by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. After the third or fourth application of this grand ointment I obtained relief, and a few boxes were sufficient to make a thorough cure. It is six months since I was freed of this wretched skin disease, and as there has been no return of the trouble I consider the cure a permanent one."

Insufficiently Protected

Mary had been greatly interested in watching the men in her grandfather's orchard putting bands around the fruit trees, and asked a great many questions.

Some weeks later, when in the city with her mother, she noticed a gentleman with a mourning band around his sleeve.

"Mamma," she asked, "what's to keep them from crawling up his other arm?"

BROKEN HEALTH BRINGS WRINKLES

How All Women Can Preserve Good Health and Good Looks

Too many women and girls look old long before they should. In nine cases out of ten it is a matter of health. Work, worry, confinement indoors and lack of exercise cause the health to run down. Then faces become thin and pale; lines and wrinkles appear, there are headaches, backaches and a constant feeling of tiredness.

Women and girls who feel well look well. Therefore improve your health and you will look better. It is a fact that thousands of Canadian women and girls owe the robust health they enjoy to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They feel well and enjoy life as only a healthy person can.

The simple reason for this is that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make new, rich, red blood, which strengthens all the vital organs, brings brightness to the eye, a glow of health to the cheek, and bracing strength to every part of the body. Mrs. Warren Wright, Una, Sask., says: "I feel that I owe a debt of gratitude to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that nothing I can say in their favor will fully repay. I was reduced in health and strength that I was hardly able to walk at all, and could do no work whatever. My blood was so thin and watery that my lips and finger tips resembled those of a corpse. I had almost con tant headaches, and the smallest exertion would set my heart palpitating violently, and often I would drop in a faint. Nothing I did seemed to help me in the least, and I felt to far gone that I never expected to recover my health. I was in this critical condition when I read in a newspaper of a cure in a case like mine through the use of Dr Williams' Pink Pills and I decided to try them. I got a half dozen boxes and before I used them all there was a great change in my condition. My appetite returned, the color began to come back to my lips and face, and my strength was increasing. I continued the use of the Pills for some time longer and they restored me to the pink of perfect health. While using the Pills I gained twenty pounds in weight. My cure was made in the summer of 1909, and I am now enjoying bett r health than ever before."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do for other women and worn women just what they did for Mrs. Wright, if they are given a fair trial. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Running two nuts on a large bolt so that the square sides face each other will make a handy wrench in an emergency.

Costiveness and Its Cure.—When the excretory organs refuse to perform their functions properly the intestines become clogged. This is known as costiveness and if neglected gives rise to numerous complications Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will effect a speedy cure. At the first intimation of this ailment the sufferer should procure a packet of the pills and put himself under a course of treatment The good effects of the pills will be almost immediately evident.

Ammonia is an excellent cleanser for porcelain, but when dirt and grease demand an extra agent, use kerosene. It will do the work thoroughly. Apply with a rag and wipe off with warm soapsuds.

Housekeepers who wish to keep their houses clean during the summer months will use Wilson's Fly Pads.

EVIL DAYS CAME.

Famous Star Who Was Reduced to Poverty.

Never were the ups and downs of a music-hall artist's life more pitifully illustrated than in the case of Mme. Senia, at one time world-famous as "the Witch of the Air," who has just died in an infirmary in London, borne there from Senia was Mrs. Hall, and at the time of her death she was 69. In her time she was the famous tight-rope walker and trapeze artist. She was the central attraction of all the big circuses, and of her the theatrical boast of "appearing before the crowned heads of Europe and Asia" could be said with a large amount of truth, for she traveled extensively, and appeared in most of the big cities of the world. She performed before Queen Victoria, and also before King Edward and Queen Alexandra when they were Prince and Princess of Wales. As "Witch of the Air" she was known everywhere, and one of the late King's horses, it will be recalled, bore that name. Through no fault of her own, Mme. Senia lost all the money she had massed, and for the past 15 years has passed through most terrible vicissitudes. Those who knew her speak of her as a good woman, and commend highly her integrity and her zeal for work. She sustained a very bad accident, and had to give up her work in the air, and from that time evil days fell thick upon her.

Her later days were made brighter and happier by the unobtrusive generosity of Mrs. Lawrence and her daughter, Miss Violet Lawrence. It seems that the little son of some people whose premises backed on to Albert-mews, near Clapham road, was in the habit of throwing away remains of food. And one day an old lady came up to him, begging that he should give it to her for her dogs. The little fellow did so, and so watched. He saw the old lady eat the best part of the waste food, and it so touched him that he went to his mother and told her of the incident, praying her that each day he might give the old lady some food. This the little fellow did for many days. Then one day an old lady was discovered by a local green-grocer to be lying stiff and almost frozen to death in a stable. He took her to his house, placed her before the fire, and gave her warm food. These facts came to the knowledge of Mrs. Lawrence and Miss Vesta Tilley, and they recognized that the old lady of the mews and the stable was the famous tight-rope walker whose name once was a household word. They discovered, too, that Mme. Senia for many years had earned a precarious living by taking performing dogs round the streets, and had four beautiful dogs, who were passionately attached to her, and she saw that the animals had food even if she starved herself. Both Mrs. Lawrence and her mother were much touched by the stress of the old lady's circumstances, and they saw that she was cared for and wanted for nothing to the day of her death. The rent of her room and the rent of the stable for her dogs were paid for her. For the past month Mme. Senia had been lying ill at Lambeth Infirmary, and before she died she begged Mrs. Lawrence to see that her faithful canine companions should be destroyed, with the exception of one, and that one she asked Mrs. Lawrence to keep. "I cannot bear to think that they may not get a good home, and it is better they should be destroyed," she said. The dog retained by Mrs. Lawrence is Pigeon, a clever animal who can turn all sorts of somersaults.

Made Police Watch Fight.

A curious cock-fighting incident is reported from Glenties, in the county district in County Derry, Ireland. Arrangements were made for a tournament, and a large crowd attended from surrounding towns. "Sport" was in full swing when a small force of police appeared on the scene. The crowd reasoned with the constables, and warned them that they be officious, and then left for another spot. The police followed, and were compelled to sit down and watch the three battles between spectators. Eventually reinforcements arrived, and after a small battle the crowd was dispersed, and some of the fighting bird owners arrested.

Fingers Betrayed Him.

The use of finger prints as an aid to the detection of criminals was shown in a remarkable manner at Dublin, Ireland, recently, when a prisoner named Keegan was sentenced to five years' imprisonment for breaking into a church. On the broken window was found a finger mark, which was identified as the prisoner's in the habitual criminals' register department of Dublin Castle. The head of that department said that about 150,000 finger prints had passed through his hands, and no two had ever been found alike. This system of identification had now superseded all other methods, and he believed it to be infallible.

Trading Teachers.

A proposal of a novel and interesting nature came before a meeting of Edinburgh School Board recently. A letter had been received from the lady principal of Lynchburg High School, Virginia, stating that she would like to exchange one or two of the English teachers in one of the Edinburgh schools for two American teachers. The School Board agreed to the proposal with the conscious reservation that the American teachers should be reasonably equivalent to the Edinburgh ones.

Fog That Kills.

One of the most striking facts in connection with the latest Bluebook relating to vital statistics in Scotland is the influence of frost and fog on the death-rate. In Glasgow the prevalence of frosty weather, combined with fog, during the last two months of the year raised the death-rate from 13.5 and 13.0 in September and October, respectively to 24.9 and 25.1 in the two following months.

A Long Job

"Where have you been for so long?" asked the head man of the menagerie.

"Been watching one of the animals clear his throat, sir," replied the attendant.

"But does it take half an hour for an animal to clear its throat"

"Yes, sir; it was the giraffe, sir."

"Why, Jack is one of the best boys under the sun," exclaimed the doting mother, when Jack's father was deploring the lad's wildness.

"Perhaps," was the reply, "but you ought to see him when the stars are shining."

MAINTAIN SKIN PURITY

The constant use of Cuticura Soap, assisted when necessary by Cuticura Ointment, not only preserves, purifies and beautifies the skin, scalp, hair and hands of infants, children and adults, but tends to prevent clogging of the pores, the common cause of pimples, blackheads, inflammation, irritation, redness, roughness and other annoying and unsightly conditions. In the speedy and economical treatment of disfiguring, itching, scaly eczemas, rashes and eruptions of the skin and scalp, these pure, sweet and gentle emollients are invaluable.

K. O. M.:—A lotion said to be excellent for making the eyebrows grow is as follows: Sulphate of quinine 8 grains, alcohol 1 oz. Mix. Moisten and rub twice daily. 2. Write, giving full particulars, of your female disorders and I will answer you privately.

Frank M.:—There is no doubt about you needing a good prescription for the kidneys and bladder. Such symptoms as painful, frequent, uncontrollable urination, varied by a scanty flow and pain in bladder regions, pain in small of back, etc., are indicative of the need of a good tonic and cleansing agent. Try this, and you will find the relief you desire: Fl. ext. buchu 1 oz., comp. fl. balmwort 1 oz., syrup sarsaparilla comp. 4 ozs. Mix and take a teaspoonful before or after meals and one at bedtime. Drink plenty of water between meals, and little liquid of any kind at meals.

Dyspeptic:—Yes, I consider you have a chronic case of dyspepsia and suggest you try the following: Essence of pepsin 3 ozs., syrup of ginger 2 ozs. and comp. essence cardiol 1 oz. Mix and take a teaspoonful before or after each meal and one at bedtime if necessary. Eat more moderately and abstain from heavy, starchy foods and pork.

M. M.:—A popular and successful beauty specialist used the following formula for years to assist the development of bust, arms and neck. It is usually very effective especially when an internal tonic and nutritive is used in conjunction as would be necessary in a case of extreme thinness like yours:—Formula: Tincture of cadomene comp. 1 oz., (not cardamom), glycerine 2 drs., rosewater 3 ozs., borax a teaspoonful. Mix, apply twice daily, rubbing and massaging a tablespoonful in until completely absorbed. Then wash with hot water and soap, dry, and massage with olive oil or sheep tallow. Then take the following prescription filled: Compound syrup of hypophosphites 6 ozs., tincture cadomene comp. 1 oz., compound essence cardiol 1 oz. Mix, shake well and take a teaspoonful before meals if appetite is not good and after meals if it is. Also a dose at bedtime. This makes a fine invigorating tonic and is perfectly harmless, no matter how long used.

A. C. K.:—The best treatment for blood poison, acquired or inherited, is simple, but to be effective must be used for eight to twelve months, and sometimes longer. You know what caused the trouble, and now that the severe stage is past, you can safely use this prescription: Syrup trifolium comp. 4 ozs., comp. fl. balmwort 3 ozs., comp. cardiol 1 oz. Mix, and take a teaspoonful after each meal and one at bedtime. You can if you wish obtain the ingredients and mix them yourself.

M. J.:—A fine laxative cough syrup is made as follows: Aromatic cascara 1 oz., comp. cardiol 1 oz., syrup of white pine comp. 4 ozs. Mix. Take a teaspoonful 3 to 10 times daily or as needed.

Canada's Next Census of Population.

The next census of Canada will be taken under date of June 1st, 1911, and will embrace the subjects of population, mortality, agriculture, manufactures, minerals, fisheries and dairy products.

Population will be recorded under the heads of residence and personal description; citizenship, nationality and religion; profession, occupation and trade, or means of living; wage-earnings and insurance; education and language spoken, and infirmities.

Every person living on June 1st will be entered on the schedule of population by name, as member of a family, institution household, together with place of habitation, sex, relationship to head of the family or household, and whether single, married, widowed, divorced or legally separated. The month of birth, year of birth, and age at last birthday will also be recorded.

Entries will be made for each person to show the country or place of birth, year of immigration to Canada if born elsewhere, year of naturalization if formerly an alien, and also racial or tribal origin, nationality and religion. Every person of alien birth who has become a naturalized citizen is a Canadian by nationality; and every British subject with residence in Canada, as well as every native of Canada who has acquired citizenship by birth or naturalization, is also a Canadian by nationality. But there is no Canadian by racial or tribal origin, unless the Indians are so counted.

Every person having an occupation or trade will be entered for it, but if employed in the census year at some other occupation for part or whole time he will be so recorded also. If the person is working on own account, the entry will be so made. An entry is also required to be made showing where the person is employed, as on farm, in woolen mill, at foundry shop, in drug store, etc.

Wage-earners are entered to show the number of weeks employed in 1910 at chief occupation or trade; at other than chief occupation if any; the hours of working time per week at chief occupation, or at other occupation if any; the total earnings in 1910 at chief occupation; the total earnings at other than chief occupation; and the rate per hour when employed by the hour.

Entries are required to be made for each person owning the amount of insurance held at date of the census upon life, as well as against accident or sickness, together with the cost of such insurance in the census year.

Under the heading of education and language records will be taken for every person of five years of age and over showing the number of months at school in 1910, and if the person can read and write, and the language commonly spoken by each person. The cost of education in 1910 for persons over 16 years of age at college, convent or university is also called for.

The last question on the schedule of population relates to infirmities. It calls for a record of each person having an infirmity. If blind, deaf and dumb, crazy or lunatic, idiotic or silly, a record thereof will be made in the proper column, and the age at which the infirmity appeared is required to be specified.

"Outdoor Canada's" Name Changed.

The August number of "The Athletic World," a new name for "Outdoor Canada" Magazine, has just been received at this office. Since this publication was taken over by W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont., each issue has shown a marked improvement over its predecessor. Its change of policy to that of a national athletic periodical is this month carried out both in name and nature. Besides the change of title the size has been increased and the contents augmented. Judging by the August number, full as it is of good, up-to-date reading pertaining to things athletic, a conspicuous place is assured "The Athletic World" among the leading Canadian national publications.

90,000,000 PERSONS IN THE UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30. — Director Durand of the census bureau estimates the population of the United States at about 90,000,000.

This estimate is based on the returns so far tabulated, and altogether the figures, he says, will be close to the 100,000,000 mark. The tabulation is expected to be finished by November 15th.

I expect the tabulation to be completed by November 15th, and immediately afterward we will be able to announce the population of the country.

C. N. R. Gives in to Stettler Town.

The citizens of Stettler are very much pleased at the announcement that the surveyors on the Brazeau branch of the C.N.R. have been ordered to discontinue work on the proposed route to Stewartwyn, and locate the line to run within a short distance of the town.

The above statement was made to the Albertan last night by Alderman Geo. C. Bentley of Stettler, who is in city on a business visit.

Mr. Bentley stated that a telegram was received in Stettler on Tuesday night from R. L. Shaw, M.P.P., stating further that in a conference with William MacKenzie, president of the C.N.R., the latter had agreed that the junction would not be more than a mile and a half from the Stettler depot and that all trains would run into Stettler and be operated from that point. The original intention was to have the junction point four and a half miles south of Stettler and the right-of-way was purchased and considerable grading work done.

Mr. Bentley is of the opinion that this action was taken by the railway company with a view to prevent an appeal to the railway commission, at the sitting this month in Calgary.

The company evidently considers that it will have a big fight with the city of Calgary in regard to level crossings in obtaining entrance to the city, and do not wish to antagonize the smaller towns.

"Whatever is its reason," said Mr. Bentley, "we have got almost all we asked for, although it might have been better if the junction had been right in the town.

"There has been farm property changing hands recently in the Stettler district," he reported, "and we have a large number of prosperous settlers from Iowa and Wisconsin this summer. Both the town and district business promises to be good during the coming fall and winter."

Covict Escaped and Caught.

Edmonton, Aug. 31.—Chas. Landon, alias Chas. Ryder, a convict in the penitentiary serving a seven year term for stealing at Red Deer, made a break for freedom yesterday afternoon, but was soon afterwards rounded up by the mounted police. He was working in the coal mine on the penitentiary property. In pursuing him, Corporal Marshall's horse fell, breaking its neck. Landon has been an exemplary prisoner. He was sentenced in 1907 and has earned by good conduct a remission from his term up to the present of over 200 days. He will now lose this.

GREAT OPPORTUNITIES.

The expansion of business in all lines of trade and manufacture throughout the Dominion is providing splendid opportunities for bright, well educated Young Men and Women. The ever increasing demand for them is very well reflected in the record of the Employment of the Business Colleges which cannot begin to supply the many calls they receive for well trained help for business offices. The salaries now paid, even beginners, is very much better than in former years and no field of employment offers better inducements or brighter prospects for a successful future than commercial interests of our country. A Book-keeper, Stenographer or telegraph operator can make a choice of the many appointments offered and can earn a good salary from the day he enters upon this line of work. Proper preparation paves the way and influence of a reputable training schools opens the door.

You am gwine to buy clothes fur de wife and childern instead of rushin' for a front seat. You am gwine to pass de ovuin's wid your family instead of spookin' around and listenin' for de blowin' of horns. You am gwine to do dis or you am gwine to be dorpped from dis yere Limekiln club wid sich a thud dat it will break bones. You can now sot down, and Brudder Halibut White will erect hisself."

Brother Halibut laid the half of a raw turnip he was eating on the floor, put away his jackknife and stood up with folded arms, and the president addressed him with:

"Brudder Halibut, de news has come to me dat on a sartin night two weeks ago you dreamed of seein' a cross eyed black cat chasin' a bobtailed white dawg frew a graveyard. You dreamed dat dream three times runnin', and it affected you so powerfully dat you got out of bed and sot up de rest of de night; also, you took it as a warnin' dat anodder airthquake was comin' and am still sittin' around and waitin' fur it. Am I correct, Brudder Halibut?"

What the Dream Meant.

"Yes, sah. Dat dream means an airthquake fur shore."

"Um! Did dat cat wink at you as she was hustlin' dat dawg along?"

"Can't say she did, sah."

"Did dat dawg sorter wave a farewell to you wid his stump of a tail?"

"Reckon not."

"Waal, we will have to remedy de oversight. Jist listen to me fur a minit. If you have any mo' dreams of dat sort and I hear of dem, an airthquake will start right under your feet! It will lift you up and bump dat hard head of yours ag'in de ceilin', and when you come down you will be frown over eighteen cha'rs and nineteen benches, and de folks dat pick you up will find your neck broken. Dat's plain English, and I hope you understand it. Dis am no dreamers' club, and it hain't no airthquake club. You can sot down and devour de rest of dat turnip, and if Brudder Syntax Green am among us tonight he may arise."

Brother Syntax was on a back seat, trying to figure out with the stub of a pencil and an old envelope how his butcher could make five out of two and two. He rose up and came forward with a puzzled face, and after taking a drink of new cider from the pitcher at his elbow the president said:

"Brudder Syntax, I hear you went ober to be cabin of Brudder Peacemaker Small de odder night and made a few predicshuns?"

"Yes, sah."

"You predicted seventeen blizzards doorin' de winter?"

"Yes, sah."

"And dat taters would go up to fo' dollars a bushel?"

"Yes, sah."

"And dat bacon would be a dollar a pound befo' next May?"

"Yes, sah."

"And dat snow would fall 'leven feet deep dis winter?"

"Yes, sah."

"And dat millyons and millyons of people was gwine to die off of cold and starvashun?"

"Yes, sah. I see it comin'."

"I's glad of dat. Mebbe you see sunthin' else comin too? Mebbe you see your name crossed off de membership book of dis Limekiln club? Mebbe you see Brudder Givendam Jones escortin' you to de doah? Mebbe you see him droppin' you into a snowdrift in de alley?"

"I—I can't zactly say I does, sah," replied the brother.

"But I does. Yes, sah, I sees all dat in case you make any mo' predicshuns and make folks trouble. You want to stop dead in your tracks. You know 'nuff to put on whitewash and black stoves, but when it comes to predicshuns you hain't in it. You drap 'em and tend to your legitimate bizness. If you don't, den look out fur me. Go back and sot down, and I have a few words to say to Brudder Standoff Taylor."

Brother Standoff wasn't looking for any sudden call and had got behind the stove to take a nap. When routed out, he fell against the stove and burned his elbow and then fell over a bench and skinned his nose and both shins, and it was some little time before he got the proper pose. Then he heard a deep, serious voice saying:

Warning to Brother Standoff.

"Brudder Standoff, I am told dat you am gwine around and lettin' it be known dat you differ with Senator Forsker?"

"Yes, sah; I does differ wid him."

"And dat you differ wid Governor Hughes?"

"Yes, sah."

"And dat dar am a wide difference of opinyon betwixt you and Mistah Odell?"

"Dat's so, sah."

"And dat you criticise de president's policy in twenty-seben different instances?"

"Twenty-nine, sah."

"Oh, I see. Beg your pardon, Brudder Standoff. I believe you have furder announced dat you and Senator Depew am out."

"We don't speak, sah."

"Too bad! Brudder Standoff, has it occurred to you dat de rest ob de kentry may not be in agreement wid you?"

"No, sah."

"Waal, let me state dat such am de case. We don't agree wid you at all, sah, and we have resolved dat if you don't keep dat mouf of yours shut tighter'n a drum arter dis sunthin' am gwine to happen to you—sunthin' to make you sick at de stumick—sunthin' to gin you a dipdog ten feet high and to land you on de back of your neck when you come down. All dis kentry expects of you, Brudder Standoff, is dat you hold your job in de wood yard at $2 a day and take care dat your wife and childers have 'nuff to eat and wear. You hear me, and I reckon you've got sense 'nuff in your head to take a hint and change your ways. Dat's all, and now we will go home."

Miss Sproule, of Penhold, who has been teaching at Cross Roads school, has been added to the Red Deer staff of teachers. This step was necessary owing to the overcrowded state of the primary classes where a new room will be formed.

W. Hilborn, manager of the Bank of Commerce, Innisfail, had a narrow escape from death Sunday. He was looking for a leak in a gas tank with a lighted match when it exploded, catching him between the eyes. It was thought he was blinded, and he was taken to Calgary hospital At last accounts it is thought his eyesight will be saved.

The farmer who owns a farm is the particular person who is fixed. Banks may fail and factories close, workmen strike and mines suspend, merchants fail and town burn, times may be panicky and even crops may be short — but the farmer who owns his acres will get along. He will live in comfort and quiet, with plenty to eat, drink and wear. He is the most independent man on earth. Yet there are lots of them who do not appreciate their situation.

C. J. B. Ward writes us from British Columbia that the Comox farming district of Vancouver Island was visited by frost on three nights following a high wind from the north on August 22nd. Potatoes, fodder corn and tomatoes were cut on the farms along the river valley; ice forming in some places tho in a few specially sheltered spots no damage was done. This is the sequel to an unusually dry summer, which, with the exception of a few slight rains, has continued since the beginning of April, and reminds us, that one of the most salubrious spots in the West, occasionally has its off season.

Last week's Toronto Globe, Saturday edition, had a splendid cut of Red Deer's arch in honor of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's visit.

Rev. C. H. Huestis, G. W. Smith and E. Michener, M. P.P., returned from Victoria, Saturday last week, where they had been attending the Methodist Conference.

Eckville.

George T. Thompson, editor of the "Rocky Mountain House Echo," passed through on his way to Edmonton. Mr. Thompson hopes soon to complete arrangements for producing the "Echo" in proper shape.

E. Mitzner in drilling a well west of Pitcox to a depth of 41 feet, struck water, which in a few minutes was within an inch or so of the top.

The Eckville store is now fully stocked. Fresh fruit arrives almost daily.

R. Stopson has harvested a splendid crop of fall wheat. Several patches of alfalfa may be seen growing in the vicinity and doing well.

Valley Centre.

The harvesting is progressing rapidly. J. Erickson finished before the snow. The yield will vary very much, the grain on old land, from drought, poor farming, and some that was hailed out, will be very light; and all properly farmed land will yield a good crop. Heavy grain that was not cut before the snow is twisted and down. Mr. Erickson is intending to start threshing this week.

The school house has been improved very much by paint, a new floor, porch and cement steps. The inside is to be varnished and kalsomined.

Miss Judd, teacher in the high school of Los Angeles, Cal., has been spending her vacation with her brother, S. S. Judd, and wife of Erskine. Miss Judd is so highly impressed with the country that she is thinking of returning next summer.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Judd, of Erskine, and Miss Judd spent Saturday and Sunday at Spruce Canyon Farm and took in all the scenery of the valley. Mr. Judd was also seeing about his half section. Miss Judd left for Los Angeles on Sunday evening by the C.P.R. and boat.

BUSINESS ANNOUNCEMENT

Having purchased the business of C. E. Hall, the Red Deer cash dry goods store, I would ask for a continuance of the patronage extended to him, and hope, by careful attention to business, to make this store the most satisfactory store at which to do your buying.

I intend to give the best service and the best quality to be had, and as the business is a cash one, it can therefore be carried on at a lower cost than a credit one; the prices therefore will naturally be of the lowest. I am now opening up my fall importations and invite you to inspect my showing, some of which are advertised in this issue.

H. L. GAETZ.

A lady asked us last night what was the matter with the weather and not knowing her politics we were afraid to explain. When Sir Wilfrid Laurier was here about a month ago he turned on the tap and he was so well treated he forgot all his troubles as well as the combination. The only solution of the problem so far as we can see is to bring Sir Wilfrid back to settle the difficulty.

Talk of the Town.

Nearly Every One in Albion, Mich., Praises Mi-o-na, the Money-Back Cure For Indigestion.

Albion, Mich.—The people in Albion are elated to an unusual extent because of the many and remarkable cures which have lately been made by Mi-o-na, a dyspepsia cure with a world wide reputation. Everybody is endorsing Mi-o-na. Here is what some respected residents say:

Mrs. E. C. Cass says: "Mi-o-na cured me of a stomach trouble that had bothered me a long time."

W. H. Mott says: "I had doctored for months without help. I used Mi-o-na and since using it three years ago I have been free from the distress."

Mrs. Emma Overy says: "For months I had dyspepsia, bad stomach distress, pains and nausea. Nothing I used relieved or cured till I used Mi-o-na."

Gaetz-Cornett Drug & Book Co., the druggists in Red Deer, sell the wonderful dyspepsia cure Mi-o-na for 50 cents a large box, and they think so well of it that they will give your money back if it doesn't cure.
